

Supported move on

The current B-with-us policy gives a high priority to applicants who are living in accommodation provided by a recognised support provider, as although these applicants are living in accommodation (i.e. they are no longer homeless), they are not given a proper tenancy, so the accommodation is not secure or long-term.

The new policy will give these applicants slightly less priority, as although they still have a need to move, their need is not as urgent or critical as some other applicants (such as those who are street homeless or at risk in their home).

The benefit of this is that the social housing allocated through B-with-us will be given to those who need it most, rather than those who are being given support and are already in some level of accommodation.

The risk of this is that some applicants who are currently active on the B-with-us housing register will have their priority reduced.

The table below shows the bands in the current policy, where the equivalent item is in the new policy, and a description of the change.
